Specializing in

Information technology (software, hardware, online help, documentation), mobile telephony, ERP platforms, marketing, brochures and catalogues, multimedia, games, branding, packaging, advertisement, E-learning, finance, corporate business, tourism, medicine, pharmacy, research, cinema and tv, subtitling, voice overs, interpreting, as well as many other global market sectors.

Mission

To translate over 1,000,000 words annually covering as many fields of translation as possible and using state-of-the art translation techniques, tools and software, including text-to-speech, speech-to-text, graphic design, and terminology management and translation memory technologies. On a personal level, to keep on studying and working in search for knowledge, service opportunities and creation in language-related activities.

Tasks

Responsible for the translation of documents, help systems, software and web pages related to my areas of specialization. Extensive knowledge of the advertising and marketing world in the field of both translation and localization. The quality of the translations is ensured by the process of thorough edition and proofreading of own work, the latter based on international guidelines, on specific style guides provided by the clients and on carefully prepared glossaries specifically related to the product being localized. Special attention is devoted to the cultural diversities among countries (particularly those existing between Latin America and Spain). Deep knowledge of all steps involved in the localization process of a product, awareness of the importance of maintaining formatting and coding, and of other issues imposed by engineering-related limitation. Commonly works with files in various formats for help systems, documentation, UI and web pages. Wide testing experience: has extensively tested help systems, focusing on consistency, cleaning indexes, checking links, being always detail oriented, and concentrating on finding typos and errors in written and online documentation. Responsible for the training of other team members. Experience in voice-overs.
