Sarah Hill BA, Pg.Dip, MA

Professional Translator

About me

I am a full-time professional translator with over 25 years of experience. I hold a Joint Honours Degree in French and German from Durham University, a Postgraduate Diploma in International Marketing with Languages from Staffordshire University and an MA in Translation and Interpreting from Bradford University.

I have lived for around 10 years in France and Germany, where I developed an in-depth understanding of the cultures of those countries as well as honing my language skills, and am now settled back in the north of England in my native region of Yorkshire.

What I offer

My main areas of specialisation include:

- Law
- Finance
- Business / marketing

I also have extensive experience in the fields of medicine and technology and am currently brushing up on my Spanish and Italian skills.

My experience

I began my translation career in-house in Paris with what has since become one of the leaders in the field. I was able to put into practice the skills I had developed over the years from my training and time spent abroad and worked for two years with this company before embarking on my freelance career in 1995. I have since worked full-time as an independent translator and have made the most of the flexibility afforded by this role to live and work in the countries of my source languages.

How I work

Before embarking on any translation task, I make sure that I am fully at ease with the subject matter and am confident that I will be able to offer a translation of an excellent quality within the required deadline. I am always happy to discuss specific translation requirements and have built up some excellent relationships with clients who have provided me with positive feedback and long-term repeat business.
