After graduating from ESIT translation school, Paris, in 2007, I headed to the UK to hone my skills working as an in-house translator and terminologist at the International Baccalaureate. I returned to France in 2010 and settled as a freelancer. Since then, I have been translating mainly in the fields of sports and education.

My specialization in sports is also a passion. It has been nurtured by a lasting practice of mountain sports and even led me to write my master's degree dissertation on the terminology of ski equipment. I keep myself informed of the latest moves of the sports industry so I know what your text is about.
