My Office:

- Based in Tokyo, Japan. This means (1) that your project will always be delivered while you sleep, have breakfast or commute to work, and (2) that you will be able to finalize your project or move on to the next (or go back home) hours earlier.
- Use the latest versions of Trados Studio, Antidote, Xbench and Dragon, while working on an ultra-large 49 inches monitor powered by an Alienware Aurora R12 CPU. This tells you how obsessed I am with performance, productivity and efficiency.
- References are available immediately upon request. A few testimonials are available below.
- Certified member of the ProZ PRO Network, which requires passing a translation test.
- Check emails daily and usually work 9 am > 5 pm, Japan Standard Time, Monday > Saturday

Please tell me about your project at gregory.translator@gmail.com. You can expect an answer within 24 hours on weekdays. Thank you.

Testimonials:

"Gregory was an absolute pleasure to work with, was super adaptable, and worked quickly to deliver what we needed in a professional manner."

- Joanna Phipps, Head of Olympic Strategy Development for The iLUKA Collective.

"We were very impressed by Greg's efficiency, pleasant manner, professionalism, and accuracy. We will for sure ask Greg to assist again on large-scale projects."

- Holly Stehr, Olympic Hospitality Consultant for The iLUKA Collective.

"Wonderful work! Gregory really understood my message and made sure to provide the proper translation."

- Nir Eyal, New York Times Best-Selling Author of "Indistractable".

"Gregory is a very hardworking and diligent person who showed incredible attention to facts and detail."

- Dan Morain, Former L.A. Times journalist and Author of "Kamala's Way".

"Grégory has been part of our project for a few years now and we could not be happier with his work and attitude. Any assignments are taken care of in record speed and the end result is always great quality. He is very reliable which makes it very easy for us to work with him which we also appreciate a lot. We highly recommend him!"

- Laura Thulke, Manager for Rogue Fitness.
