

Freelancing Resume - Emma Lindhagen

Last updated June-2022

I am a freelance translator, editor and proof-reader. I am looking for both short- and long-term projects, as I enjoy the variety of short-term work but am also looking to build up a clientele of returning or long-term customers. I am a quick and efficient worker and am usually able to work in evenings or weekends when needed. I am located in Stockholm, Sweden, which may affect my speed of answering messages at certain times of the day.

Experience and Skills

I began freelancing as a translator, editor and writer in 2014. I have experience with a range of different texts including technical documentation, gaming content, web copy, marketing texts, personal letters and academic texts.

My native language is Swedish, and my English proficiency is native-like. I can translate the following language pairs:

English -> Swedish

Arabic -> Swedish

Norwegian -> Swedish

Danish -> Swedish

Swedish -> English

Arabic -> English

I also offer services proofreading, editing and writing in Swedish and English.

Educational Background

I have a BA in Arabic with Middle Eastern studies and another in English Linguistics. I am currently studying toward a MA in English Linguistics. I have also studied folklore, philosophy and other subjects at university level.

Outside of Freelancing

Outside of freelancing, I have lengthy experience working with administration in the context of higher education. I also write fiction and poetry, and I enjoy reading, watching movies, baking and playing tabletop RPGs.

Technical Competences

I have worked with a range of CAT software systems, but have most experience in MemoQ. I am a quick study when it comes to software and am always happy to work in a new system.

Pricing

My standard rate for translation is €0.11/word.

My standard rate for proofreading and editing is €0.03/word.

My rate for content writing and MTPE is negotiated on a per-project basis.
