About Me

I am a detail-oriented linguist passionate about localization of video games. I have been into games for more than 15 years, while also working as a professional translator for the past 7 years. My passion lies particularly with story-driven walking simulators, although I also enjoy other genres. Feel free to find me on Steam. I am eager to contribute my skills and expertise to help create immersive experiences that resonate with diverse audiences.

Professional Experience

I have translated over 1,455,000 English words across various subjects. My experience includes participation in the localization of several casual video games, a mobile strategy game, an MMO battle royale fantasy game, and a space-based MMORPG. Additionally, I translated a science fantasy tabletop game lore book and conducted LQA for a vehicle simulator video game.
