HOBBIES AND INTERESTS

I've been really passionate about software, videogames and technology, following the development of the industry from very first and early devices to modern and complex ones. This hobby has given me a great insight in this field that helps me a lot in my videogames and software localization tasks.

Psychology is my other true love, and although due to different circumstances I ended up working in other fields, my studies has given me a special attention to human behavior, ethology and education systems.
