Dear everyone in ProZ:

I am applying for ENG-KOR Translation Job in ProZ. I've graduated in February 2018 from Chonnam National University(CNU) with a Bachelor of Agricultural Economics and a minor degree of Economics. I have learned microeconomic theories applying to the Korean Agricultural Industry and in order to extend my knowledge to macroeconomics, have taken classes in Economics. Due to my academic backgrounds, I am very motivated and eager to work in places related to Agricultural and economic field.

My organizational and English translation skills are well demonstrated in my working experiences in non-profit, corporate and student organization settings. Firstly, I interned with World Financial Group in Winnipeg, Canada which is an affiliated company of Transamerica and an insurance agent. During my internship, I learn what I should do in WFG as an intern such as paperwork and typing, and have communicated with my mentor to get all things done perfectly. Secondly, I have volunteered at GIC, a non-profit organization in Gwangju that helps people from other countries to live in S.Korea and cooperates with the City Hall of Gwangju. In this organization, I worked as an interpreter and a translator. What I did in GIC was to help other countries' people who got stuck with the cultural differences between Koreans and those and to translate Korean articles in English. In addition, I was in an English Speaking and Translation club as a president and an English instructor and participated in several opportunities to be an interpreter. Additionally, my extensive travel experience; Morocco, Portugal, Spain and Canada have fostered an ease in working with people from diverse background.

To discuss with people in terms of Agricultural Economics and Economics issues in English, I have taken some classes in Agricultural Economics and Economics composed in English at my university. It helped me a lot to figure out economical theories in English, to read economical English journals more easily, and to be interested in some other countries' policies that can affect our overall economies. Due to this experience, I became eager to work in other countries where I could use my economical knowledge with speaking English and translating English into Korean or Korean into English.

Thank you for reviewing my application. Should you have any questions, you may reach me using the contact information listed above.

Best regards,

Gillhyeon Go
