Summary

I believe as a translator, one should be not only responsible for remaining true to the original message but also, have the chance of transmitting sounds, colors, and emotions into the translated text. We are artists also, as we need to imprint the speaker's intention into the target language. As an ESL instructor, I feel very happy to help others communicate and get out of their comfort zone by pushing themselves to learn a foreign language at any age. I'm passionate about my work and a true believer in the anonymous saying "Choose a job you love and you'll never have to work a day in your life"!

Apart from doing translations myself, I've been managing teams of translators and making sure the final translation is delivered on time and with the highest quality standards. I use CAT tools to ensure terminology consistency and precision. I'm also in charge of coordinating teachers for in-company/remote classes in English as well as Portuguese.

This experience allowed me to really grasp the American culture and learn and enjoy their traditions as well as getting a much deeper knowledge of the English language. I lived with an American family for a whole year and was in charge of driving their kids to school and other activities. I had the chance of studying English and Italian too while I was there. This is one of the greatest experiences I have had so far, and has helped me grow not only as a professional but also as a person.
