About Fox

Fox Technical Translations was founded in 2011 by Paula Raposo, our chief-interpreter who selects and allocates professionals for every job in interpretation and written translation.

The company has been specializing in the field related to the exact sciences, encompassing expertise and experience in matters such as Medicine, Biology, Pharmaceuticals, Environment and Agrobusiness.

We have a team of certified professionals affiliated to the most important national and international institutions and associations in the translation field:

ATA

American Translators Association

ATA has almost 700 individual professionals and associated institutions engaged in translation and interpretation activities.

ABRATES

Associação Brasileira de Tradutores

Brazilian Association of Translators
With 11,000 members, including translators, interpreters and government agencies. One of its main functions includes promotion, certification, and development of professionals in the field.

SINTRA

Sindicato Nacional dos Tradutores

SINTRA has represented the interests of translation professionals in Brazil since 1988. It provides clients an average of the rates practiced in every State of Brazil by type of translation and interpretation service.

Interpretation

Interpreters are selected personally by our chief interpreter and allocated according to their area of knowledge and experience.
