PERSONAL PROFILE

Born in 1976 I am now a family father, a self-employed book publisher and a freelance translator. I grew up in Sweden but moved to northern Finland in 2008.

With a strong commitment to social and environmental justice I have been involved in many NGOs and community organisations.

I have a passion for art, music and literature as well as hiking and out-door activities

I also like to play chess, play guitar, engage in creative writing, language learning or other self-development activities.

My broad field of interests as well as educational and working experience gives me a good sense of how language are used in different social contexts.
