Academic and Employment Profile

I am a graduate in Hispanic Literature from the University of Guadalajara, Mexico, currently working on my thesis to obtain a dual degree in Inter-American Studies from the University of Bielefeld, Germany, and the University of Guadalajara, Mexico. In my professional experience, I have worked as a translator, interpreter, writer, style editor, and content creator for various channels of communication in industrial, advertising, and academic institutions. I have a personal interest in culture, its research, and involvement in projects for its dissemination. My passions include the arts, language learning and teaching, and creative writing.
