Objectives

An internship with a company of Information Technology to acquire professional experience abroad and develop social skills in working with strangers.

Background and Key Skills

I am a student in Electronic Engineering and I want to experience working abroad in my particular field of studies or in others too.

I am dynamic and quick to grasp new ideas, I like to put myself to the test. A prove to this is my Semester in Norway, studying at NTNU (University of Technology of Norway), where I interacted with foreigners as a student, as a co-worker, and as a friend.

I consider myself a man before than a worker and I'm interested in lots of topics. I am sociable and open-minded and I find it challenging to find innovative and original solutions to problems.

I have strong language and social skills.

Education and Certifications

1st Semester 2006 – Exchange student at NTNU of Trondheim, Norway (Erasmus study programme), financed by the European Union, where:

- I got in contact with a foreign institution
- I developed teamwork abilities on a project with foreigners about Informatics
- I studied and had exams in other languages (English and Norwegian)
- I improved my social skills knowing other students from all around the world
- I lived on my own with success for a long time in an all different environment than Italy

2004 – Registration at the University Of Rome, where I'm studying Electronic Engineering

2004 – Graduation at Liceo Scientifico (Scientific High School) with the vote 100/100
